OBJECTIVES
Upon completion of this lesson, participants will be able to:
- Understand how financial decisions made can affect other areas of life.
- Explain how a desired standard of living relates to the choices made within a career path.
- Examine personal needs and wants in relation to choices in life.
- Understand how workplace conflicts can be overcome in a positive manner.

INTRODUCTION
Financial distress often causes stressors that affect multiple areas of life that include, but are not limited to, one’s career, personal values, and relationships. Balancing needs and wants and the financial means to provide the necessary items, acquire what is wanted, and attain personal satisfaction in a career can be a challenge. Rebecca Bloomwood identifies just how challenging this can be while attempting to be a journalist at a magazine that incorporates the positive financial practices she has yet to implement within her own life. While working at a financial magazine, the main character is working to overcome her own struggle by having to decide between a need and a want in the context of her shopping obsession that has landed her with a pile of credit card debt.

In this lesson, participants will evaluate how Rebecca makes and handles her decisions concerning her finances. A discussion of whether the financial decisions were positive or negative, how Rebecca’s personal relationships were affected, and how a career choice can provide more resources than monetary amounts for an individual will occur. Participants will consider their financial decisions from the past, present, and in the future to analyze personal behavior styles influencing purchasing decisions, assess the value of material goods to them individually, and learn about the consequences of poor financial decisions resulting in adverse situations.

FACILITATION
*Note to educator: This movie is rated PG for some mild language and thematic elements. Please review this movie in advance to decide if it is appropriate.
1. Ask participants to complete the What Activities Make You Feel Good worksheet 5.0.44.A1 prior to viewing the movie.
   a. Allow approximately five minutes to complete the worksheet.
b. Have participants share answers with the rest of the class.

c. Discuss

   i. How many had $ signs? What activities were these?
   ii. How many had ♥ signs? What activities were these?
   iii. How many had both? What activities were these?
   iv. What does this say about money?
   v. Is money needed for all things or all activities listed on the worksheet?
   vi. Are the things on your list wants or needs?
   vii. Do you participate in this activity as much as you would like?
   viii. When do you want to do this activity again?

2. Tell participants they will be watching a movie to learn about risky financial behaviors which may result in financial stress which can affect all areas of life including but not limited to financial security, career opportunities, individual happiness, relationships, and have a long-term impact on future opportunities.

3. Hand out Confessions of a Shopaholic worksheet 5.0.44.A2 for participants to complete while watching the movie.

4. Have participants watch “Confessions of a Shopaholic” movie.

CONCLUSION

Ask participants to brainstorm a list of all of the financial mishaps that are addressed within the movie. Discuss what behaviors caused each occurrence to happen, the consequences, and potential long-term impact.

Or

Discuss the short answer questions that participants completed for their Confessions of a Shopaholic worksheet 5.0.44.A2

ASSESSMENT

In small groups, have participants accomplish the goals that are listed on Magazine Creation worksheet 5.0.44.A4. Following the creation of their magazine, have them write a news article that will be featured in their magazine based upon the content learned throughout the movie about Rebecca’s financial struggles. The Magazine Article Creation rubric 5.0.44.B1 should be used for grading this assignment.

Note to educator: Once the magazine cover and/or articles are created, consider displaying them in the school or community newspaper, a bulletin board, or other public area for individuals outside of your classroom to learn more about financial education.

Or

Have participants complete the Confessions of a Shopaholic Review worksheet 5.0.44.A3 to emphasize some of the key concepts addressed throughout the movie.

MAGAZINE ARTICLE CREATION

Name:
Date:

Directions:
Rebecca is not alone when dealing with the financial issues that face her on a daily basis. Imagine you are called by a financial magazine, similar to the one that you created, to write a news article to provide information to the readers regarding credit from what you learned in the movie. Write a one page, typed, double-spaced, 12 pt. font with 1-inch margins informational news article on credit to be featured in a financial magazine.

1. Within this article you should address at least two aspects of credit that Rebecca struggled with in the movie.
2. Within this article you should address at least two tools or tips that can help individuals who are in situations similar to Rebecca’s.
